

TOWN GIVEN UP.

Colenso Deserted by the British—News From Gen. White Still Wanting—Italy Wants San Mun—Other Matters.

London, Nov. 4. The war office late this afternoon issued the following announcement: "The official office has received information to the effect that the British troops have withdrawn from Colenso, and have concentrated farther south, but we have no news of any engagement in that neighborhood."

A significant fact is that the war office does not say when Colenso was evacuated, so the statement, which emanated Thursday from the British, the diplomatic representative of the Transvaal at Brussels, that the Boers had occupied Colenso, was possibly true. There is much fear that the war office is suppressing bad news.

BOER PLAN OF CAMPAIGN.

London, Nov. 4. The Tribune has the following cable from London this morning: "Owing to the continued interruption of telegraphic communication with Ladysmith, no further news has been received from Gen. White. The despatch long list of casualties published yesterday provokes the belief that the Boers have been given an altogether erroneous impression of the losses incurred."

There is still no explanation of the mystery attaching to the strange rumors from Gen. White of a Boer victory, and no confirmation forthcoming of a Boer defeat reported from the Cape.

BOERS MOUNT BIG GUNS.

London, Nov. 4. The Kimberley correspondent of the Daily Mail, in a dispatch dated Nov. 3, and forwarded by way of Orange River, says: "The Boers are still in force in this vicinity. On Saturday night a heavy gun was fired on in the neighborhood of the Western mine, the enemy employed a quantity of ammunition, inflicting a heavy loss on the British. A few Boers were killed, but the British were not hurt."

NON-NEWS FROM GEN. WHITE

London, Nov. 4. The following official announcement has been made by the war office: "No news has been received from Ladysmith up to 2 o'clock this afternoon. We therefore presume that the wire is still interrupted."

In spite of silence the officials in the war office do not credit the various rumors as to the position of the British, and no grave anxiety is present in regard to the ability of Gen. White to hold his own.

The fact that the British war office has received no news of the situation at Ladysmith seems to effectually dispose of yesterday's continental rumors of Gen. White's capture and the Boers' victory, as if the general had sustained a severe reverse there is no reason to believe that Gen. White would have been only too glad to forward Gen. Buller's announcement of the fact to the nearest telegraph station, while it is added, had news of such a serious character reached a foreign government it would have been undoubtedly have promptly been conveyed to the British government.

As the Marmabank cable is still broken, it is impossible to know what are the latest reports of foreign governments, and it is further pointed out that in view of the fact that the British war office would be of the greatest moral assistance to the Boers, it seems obvious that the Boer sympathizers would make such an announcement as quickly and as widely as possible.

The war office here is making every effort to communicate with Ladysmith, in the meantime the best opinion is that the British will be able to hold their own.

The British experts smile at the Boer plan of campaign, which contemplates seizing Ladysmith in order to prevent the landing of the British troops there.

They say that it has one fatal defect, namely, that it ignores the fact that under whose guns it is claimed, the seizure of Ladysmith will be impossible.

The despatches today show that the forces in the Orange River State are at least preparing to evade Cape Colony. These forces are not overwhelming but the Dutch in the neighborhood of Colenso and Burgersdorp are exceptionally strong, and their support is evidently expected. The objective of this force of Boers will probably be Naauw Pot, one of the most important strategic points in the Orange River State, and which will probably be the first division of the army corps.

Nauw Pot is understood to be well garrisoned and able to take care of itself. Trains bound to Colenso have been almost suspended.

The despatches from Ladysmith though three days old, are regarded here as being more cheering and as indicating that the Boers are not disposed to come to close quarters.

On the other hand some people assert that it is more probable that the Boers are retreating prior to a fresh onslaught on Ladysmith. Others show that the news after the artillery duel and ineffective skirmish of Tuesday, the Boers took up good positions on Signal hill and Simbulani mountains.

The two commanders continue to exchange courtesies. Gen. White in response to Gen. Buller's request on Tuesday, 16th, the Boers are in the knowledge of the position of the Boers' strenuous efforts to cut the railroad south.

Adverse reports show that the people there are beginning to realize the seriousness of the situation in Natal. The merchants are apprehensive of the Boers overrunning the entire country, and it is reported that many of them have instructed their representatives to leave Pietermaritzburg.

In spite of the optimism of the military men, there is a feeling of general anxiety at Cape Town. The Orange river is reported to be so swollen that the drifts are impassable, and the Boers hold the wagon

Prominent Men Address 1st District Republicans.

Senator Frye and Congressman Boutelle Discuss Philippine Question.

Candidate Amos L. Allen Defines His Position.

Portland, Me., Nov. 4. Senator Frye, Congressman Boutelle and Candidate Amos L. Allen addressed the concluding rally of the campaign in City Hall tonight. Chairman George H. Allen of the Republican city committee presided.

Candidate Allen spoke first, declaring himself in favor of a protective tariff, a maintenance of the gold standard of currency and maintaining the President in the suppression of the rebellion in the Philippines.

Senator Frye's speech was in the main similar to that delivered at the recent mass meeting in Biddeford. He compared the industrial conditions under the McKinley and Dingley tariffs with those which followed the passage of the Foran bill, and asked the voters of the first Maine district to live up to their good record by continuing to send a Republican representative to Congress.

He advocated the Republican policy in favor of the revival of the merchant marine, and recommended the building of the Nicaragua canal.

Speaking of the Spanish war and its outcome, he said that in his opinion Congress should have declared war at least a month sooner than it did; that would have saved the lives of about 200,000 men in Havana harbor, and saved that gallant ship.

"The men who represented the United States at the treaty conference," said he, "were plain business men, unlearned in diplomacy, which, by the way, means lying."

"I wanted and I got it," he said, "I wanted a coaling station in the island of Cuba, and I got it. I wanted something else, and I got it. I wanted everything I could get, and I got it. We didn't take the sovereignty of Cuba, because Congress had told us not to. Those people in Cuba got the government, to whom will they go? Surely to the United States. Continuity and gratitude will give us the entire trade of the island."

"Trade Rico is ours! Just as much as Maine is ours. I don't want to say anything about the trade of Cuba, but I want to say that the trade of Cuba is ours. We could have taken the Caroline islands in the same way in about 15 minutes, and we could have taken them in 15 minutes."

Of the Philippine islands he said: "They are worth scores of islands like Cuba and Porto Rico, and from a strategic standpoint they are worth more than the entire commercial world."

Coming to a question of what should be done with the Philippines, he said the Philippines are not a self-governing people. All Americans want is to be a president. All Americans want is to be a president.

"First of all," Mr. Frye continued, "we must have peace. We must have peace. Then we can develop the natural resources of the country. Give employment to the people and the country will be prosperous. Teachers there, give them a chance to be good citizens. Then just as far as self-government is concerned, let them have it."

"Perhaps some day in the distant future when they have learned to control themselves, perhaps, I say, we may yield the Philippines to them. I believe in a naval station on the island of Luzon. I believe in a naval station on the island of Luzon."

When they have learned to control themselves, perhaps, I say, we may yield the Philippines to them. I believe in a naval station on the island of Luzon. I believe in a naval station on the island of Luzon."

Spicy Bits and Latest Gossip From the City Across the Penobscot—Interesting Notes For All.

Doll drill tomorrow night.

Brewer property grows more valuable every year. Mr. Charles Rand has recovered from his recent sick spell.

Mr. Aaron Sawyer has just completed a new addition to his oil.

Logie's stable has been rented to the blacksmith at the lower corner.

Mr. George Yavo has moved his family into the handsome new Richardson house.

Mr. Harry Thayer, Mr. Fred Getchell and Mr. Ralph Getchell have returned from Chicago.

The date of the doll drill has been changed from Thursday to Tuesday evening of this week.

Two little girls who were to take part in the doll drill are sick. Their places will be filled from the Sunday school.

Brewer is growing. She is going to be the city, only give her little. She will not always be called the little city across the way.

Brewer women whose husbands were out late the other night rejoicing on account of Jeffrey's victory, were rejoicing yesterday in stylish new bonnets.

Mr. John B. Littlefield, one of the most prominent lumber men in Brewer and who has extensive lumber operations through Knox County is on a business trip up river.

Already $2000 has been raised toward the new Methodist church. Everyone should encourage this work, as it will be an ornament to our city, and will add much to our public buildings.

One of our citizens who rides considerably says that when he goes out for a long drive he always holds his horse in for the first few miles. He says they always make it up on the last half of the journey.

Speaking of attractive places around Brewer and vicinity, Mr. Samuel Dean's spring is an ideal place. Situated very near the road, but secluded by a grove of tall trees, it is a very pleasant place for school picnics and bicycle parties. The water of the spring is always cold and clear and it is said, has been very beneficial in dyspepsia cases. It has peculiar properties which are very beautiful and taken regularly is called a good blood purifier.

Mr. William Richardson, one of Brewer's best-known stage keepers, has now one of the best new houses in the city. Sheehan and Dunbar have just put the finishing touches to it in an artistic job of painting and it stands now an object of admiration from all who pass that way. Mr. Richardson is a self-made man and is proud of the fact. He has been greatly assisted in his work by having a good wife who has always done her share towards making Mr. Richardson's business affairs a success, she having had a department store of novelties, school supplies, tinware, etc., in a room which joins Mr. Richardson's well kept meat market. Mr. Richardson and wife have prospered and they owe their prosperity to hard, honest labor faithfully performed. Mr. Richardson's new house has two good tenants who will thoroughly appreciate the modern improvements connected with this new house—electric lights, good drainage, holly water and everything, in fact, for their comfort.

Mr. W. O. Seavy, Brewer's popular dentist, and Mr. George Yavo with their families, will occupy their respective parts. Mr. Yavo, of the Chicago Beef Co., with his family, will occupy the lower tenement, and Denier Seavy, the upper one.

Mr. Richardson intends to have the place graded to the spring and have a nice green lawn.

Brewer people who are so keenly alive to the beauties of scenery in the various places where they visit, seem blind to the charms which their own city possesses.

One charming spot is Oak Grove spring, near the salmon fishing, and the beautiful fall of water, of which words cannot describe the grandeur. This spring is the place where the famous Oak Grove spring water is, and is a delightful spot which only the children seem to appreciate. Occasionally a teacher in the public schools takes her little flock there. Otherwise (except by the boys) who practice ball playing in the adjacent field once in a great while the place is comparatively unknown.

This place must be seen to be admired. It is a good place for people who seek to go to and refresh themselves. There is no need of people getting miles away from their homes, if they are wise enough to visit the places of interest in their own city and vicinity. Another charming place is Wright's Pine Grove, which although seemingly of no interest to our people is thoroughly appreciated by Massachusetts people who spend the summer boarding with Miss Wright and who fairly live among the tall, waving pine trees during the summer. In this grove there is always a swing and three or four hammocks, rustic seats and a table and everything to make it pleasant and attractive. Still Brewer people tire themselves planning, getting ready, going and coming back more tired than they went away, when they might have enjoyed the same freedom and more beautiful scenery by only going a mile or two from home, saving money and saving strength. No more beautiful scene can be desired than coming in Bangor avenue and getting a bird's eye view of Bangor in the distance.

Brewer some nearer, than the green fields and woods, and if it chances to be late in the afternoon the beautiful sunset, or if you chance to go out still further and visit the Goose farm you will find a beautiful, ideal country road. There you will find a beautiful grove of trees where the boys say beechams are numerous in their season. A person could write of innumerable places. Just picture Black Cap—remember your first impression—a great deal prettier than Northport or any other popular part. If Brewer people would only appreciate such things and help to make others do so Brewer would grow better and richer, and instead of money going out of Brewer every summer money would be coming in, and then we could have the library and other much desired things. Even if we can't enjoy a free bridge let us make the most of what we can enjoy—good gifts of nature's beautiful scenes.

Next in order are Thanksgiving preparations.

The latest demand in Brewer is for more electric lights.

Miss Bertha Hall, who has been sick is much improved.

The Chamberlain street skating pond is a thing of the past.

Sunday services in the churches were well attended yesterday in this city.

Business men, attention! Minister Merrill will give you a good address.

Mr. Frank Arty, who was on a business trip to this city last week, has returned to his home in North Bucksport.

Two new boilers were added to the engine room equipments at the pulp mill last week. They will be heated by coal.

The King's Daughters' society hope to get the hall free for their affair which will take place some time this winter.

Mr. Frank St. Thomas, who is a valued employee of Mr. Irving Dean in his stable, contemplates moving his family to Brewer.

Brewer people are reminded that they can have the Whig brought to their doors early every morning for only 15 cents a week.

Saturday was a quiet day in the Brewer police department. "Lute" had a good eye for business but failed to find anything out of order.

The wharves at the Oliver mill are being thoroughly repaired by Mr. Spelman, the well known bridge and wharf builder. His men are more than busy.

Harlow street, which used to be one of the loneliest streets in Brewer, has built up so that it is now one of the pleasantest. Brewer is steadily growing.

The friends of Mr. Tennis Arsenault of South Brewer were sorry to hear of his painful accident, he having had one of his fingers caught between two rollers in the pulp machine at the mill.

Mr. William Fowler has leased the Henry Marsh house on School street through Mr. Marsh's agents, Messrs. Robinson & Paine. The house has been thoroughly repaired and Mr. Fowler will take his family there at once.

Some of the younger girls around Brewer have formed a little band, and during the summer months took flowers to the Bangor hospital every week. Each girl in turn had a separate day and kept the hospital well supplied. Such thoughtful deeds on their part sets a good example for their elders.

A member of the King's Daughters' society says that the majority of the Brewer people are so comfortable that they have no idea of how many poor people there are who need help. She said that if people realized how much misery there is right here in Brewer they would help more than they do.

Another house which may be mentioned among the handsome homes of Brewer is the Barker home on State street, which since its late improvements, makes an imposing appearance from its high position on the hill. Besides being a handsome house and having a beautiful lawn, it is built on one of the finest sites in Brewer.

The Brewer women who scolded their husbands for being out so late Friday night, were unjustly suspicious. The poor men were only standing with the crowd in front of the Bangor Daily Whig and Courier office, listening to the mellow tones of the megaphone announcing the news of the much-talked-of prize fight.

Mr. Brimmer was busy Saturday between showers, hauling hay from his farm. Besides raising hay Mr. Brimmer has been successful with everything which he has planned. He is about the only farmer hereabouts who raises dairy. Every year he has had a quantity of it from his farm.

Brewer lazy men are wearing out their gray matter in inventing excuses so as to put off hanging the outside doors and putting on the double windows. Their patient wives will smile at their frozen fingers in a few weeks and say, "I told you so," when they are putting them on in the cold weather.

How many tired mothers and delicate children who do not ride bicycles will enjoy riding out to some of the ponds on the electricity? For people who never ride a wheel, do not keep a horse of their own, and could not afford stable horses, what a treat the ride in the cars to the pond will be. Riverside will have to take a back seat then.

Brewer young man has a novel scheme of killing two birds with one stone. He is planning to make a henyard of his orchard, while watching his apple-tree trunks and fencing them in. In this manner he expects to make a success of the hen business, also raising his orchard of the worm nuisance, and take a Brewer man every time to plant, and also to make a success of his plan. Next!

Two deer and two buck were brought to Brewer by Hon. Blakes Merrill. Dr. Harold P. Foss and Mr. George Blanchard.

The Halthorn Manufacturing Company have received 350 tons of coal. It was brought to Foster & Palmer's wharf by the schooner John Ross.

Mr. Stephen Hall is doing his best to have the school rooms warm. He was busy last week getting ready for winter by putting the school house double windows on, etc.

Besides the reading, recitation paper and music at the next meeting there will be selections on the graphophone at the Demosthenian Lyceum Association meeting Friday evening.

The Demosthenian Lyceum Association connected with the Brewer High school will hold a meeting next Friday evening, which will commence promptly at 7.15 o'clock, Standard time.

The missionary concert given at the First Congregational church last evening had a fine attendance. The finely arranged program was enjoyed by all who had the pleasure of attending.

Repairs have been made on the connecting pipe of the coal pool at the junction of Main and Holyoke streets. It had been clogged and was obliged to be removed in order to make the necessary repairs.

The Brewer citizens, as a whole, wish to have the city thoroughly lighted in every reasonable place before any other extra expense is added to the city by buying the necessary equipments for owning an electric light plant.

The plot of land in front of Mr. Irving Dean's stable is soon going to be cleared of all the rubbish, which will add much to the otherwise neat appearance of the lower corner. Just think of weeds going to seed right in the heart of our city.

The Brewer Baptist Sunday school held a meeting one evening last week and elected the following officers: Mr. Allan Ray, superintendent; Mr. P. E. Ayer, secretary; Mr. Hawkins, treasurer; Miss Vesta Blumer and Miss Alice Ray, librarians.

ANX Brewer boy who would get a boat and row people back and forth could make quite a little sum rowing people over near the head of Chamberlain street to the landing at the foot of Boyd street. It would save the Brewer people a long walk Sunday morning and would be appreciated by many who attend the 7.20 divine service at St. John's church.

Miss Annie Bradbury, a popular young lady of this city, is meeting with much success teaching in one of the South Brewer schools. Miss Bradbury received her education in the Brewer public schools. Besides being a graduate of the Brewer high school she is also a graduate of the Bangor Training school for teachers, which is under the able direction of Supr. Mary Snow.

Although the steamer Golden Rod and other boats are being taken off the river and are being hauled up at Stetson's machine railway, no so the tug Sunmark has been getting her error on and is preparing to do battle with the ice. She was relanchued last week from Stetson's machine railway after having new straps of iron placed on her bow and having a new copper bottom.

A Brewer man who found out that his son was getting interested in buying stocks, advised him as follows: "Although buying and selling stocks is no more gambling than perhaps any other business for boys or the ordinary business man, if you are going to buy and sell stocks make a business of it to the exclusion of all other business and it won't be long before you are seeking other employment."

The series of addresses to the business men of Brewer by Rev. B. B. Merrill pastor of the First Congregational church by this city, will no doubt be largely attended by the business men of this city. Minister Merrill is an eloquent speaker and his addresses will without doubt be of a very interesting nature as well as being of much benefit to our business men. All business men should be interested and prove their appreciation of Minister Merrill's good work by attending. Minister Merrill is not working for his own parish alone but for the general good of all.

A FLORAL OPENING,

with all the favorite Autumn plants and blooms on show, holds forth this week at my conservatories. You mustn't miss it—the very sight of all these gorgeous buds and flowers will do you good. And then, too, there is such a splendid flower field to choose from, if you care to buy.

Take Chrysanthemums, for example—the brilliant, massive-headed fellows that lead this week's display. They are magnificent blossoms, every one—big as you like them, splendidly formed, graceful, and colored elegantly. They're of rugged, hardy stock—you never saw a poor Sekenger Chrysanthemum and you never will. Prices are not high.

Then Violets.

are here—extra large ones that have come to ideal size and color. Two ever-popular varieties, the double English kind and Lady Hume Campbells, bloom here in abundance. They make handsome bunches—and are not hard to buy.

Roses, Too.

are prominent in this floral show. The choicest kinds that grow are on display, and they are laden with a wealth of handsome, fragrant flowers.

If Pinks

attract you, here's a treat to deed. Daybreaks, Scots, dark reds, whites, yellows—all the wanted varieties are here, and here in plenty. They're in fresh bloom—are full of spicy fragrance and rare beauty.

Stevias and Smilax, too pretty to be passed—too popular to be omitted—are here, too.

Remember my two specialties—Floral Design Work and

I have a new home for my palms—a 50-foot house devoted to palms alone. Three other new houses, each 100 feet long, have just been finished.

ADAM SEKINGER,

Branch: Sweet's Drug Store.

32 NEWBURY STREET.

Brewer can boast of $22,000 worth of school property.

The wet weather of Saturday made Mr. Gardner and other rubber dealers smile.

Now is the time to take pictures of the Methodist church. They will be able to have for souvenirs after the present building has been removed and the new one is in its place.

Mrs. Kellen, the Center street store keeper, has in her possession a bit of china that is supposed to be over 100 years old. It is in the form of a vase with a young girl and her dog by her side at the base of it. It is highly colored and is a very unique article which she prizes very highly.

Parker & Peaks shoe factory is a great boon to the people of this city. Many families are supported and good livings are made by people who otherwise would have to leave home to get work. A factory of that kind would be a great help to Brewer if situated on some of this city's waste land.

The Brewer Free Will Baptist society is in hopes that it won't be long before it will have a new church building. Their present place of worship in the Burr building has been nicely fitted up and being centrally located, it is a convenient place for the members. But in time, as the society is continually growing, they will need a new structure.

There is plenty of room, plenty of money and plenty of brains in Brewer to make it one of the money cities in the United States, if the money citizens would only use some of their money to help build it. They would be well repaid and besides their work would be remembered long after they had gone to their last resting place.

Complaints being made of stagnant water caused Mr. Farrington to let the water loose and has had that part of the pasture filled in which was known as Duna's pond. The crowds will probably go up to the Muck pond instead this winter. This pond, which has always been a popular resort, will be doubly appreciated now.

The small boys and girls and some of the older people will miss their usual sport, skating this winter on Dunn's pond. This pond has been a favorite place with Brewer people and Bangor people, too, to skate. It being so near, and the water not deep that it afforded a safe place for the young people to enjoy their favorite pastime.

Any one having warm flannels or any kind of good, warm clothing which they do not need, are requested to give them to the King's Daughters' society. Any one wishing to donate a little money, may be sure that it will be used in a noble cause.

The Brewer City Hall is valued at $12,000, the city farm and building at $2,500. The public property of Brewer as a whole is valued at $56,700.

Mr. Bert Rowe, the Centre street dealer, has his business down to a science. By industrious habits, strict attention to every little detail of business and a special kind word to every one, he has built up a good business, which he has worked hard to increase. He is the Bernardina of Brewer.

Speaking of summer places, if some energetic, money man would build a beautiful building with all the modern improvements and stable connected, where horses and cut umbrellas, etc., could be hired, advertised in a good shape, thousands of people who flock to the White Mountains and various other resorts would be only too glad to avail themselves of the opportunity to be so near the city and still enjoy the rustic pleasures on the outskirts of Brewer.

Miss Frances Upton has recently arrived home, after having spent ten days in Dover.

Mr. Ezekiel Sweet is doing well in his shoe shop in the back part of Gardiner's shoe store.

"Father" Hook is thinking seriously of raising whiskers this winter. If he does he is liable to lose his situation.

The many friends of Miss Frances Spurling are pleased to learn that she has recovered from her recent illness.

The city of Brewer paid over $22,250.12 for the poor last year; $1,155.87 was paid outside the almshouse, the remaining $1,029.25 paid to run the almshouse.

The sum of $17,485 is available for the purchase of books for the library at Colwell during 1893-1894. How this city would glory over just one-eighth of that or even sixteenth of it.

The Brewer fire department has 4000 feet of hose, 500 feet of fire rope, 64 spencers, 68 rubber coats, 32 spencer belts and 13 ladders. They have also five hose carts and 4 hose houses. Chief Engineer Currier thinks a fire alarm of some kind is needed so the firemen will know in which direction to go, as they lose time by not knowing which direction to take.

Mr. Thomas go and Mr. John Gies and others, who are good citizens as well as tax payers, report that the part of Chamberlain street where they live is one of the worst roads in Brewer. They have no doubt about it. Mr. Barry will have that extremity of Chamberlain street paved to promptly, as he usually does in such cases which have escaped his observation, as the remainder of the street never was so good and never received such frequent attention. People think it had to have such good citizens wallowing in the deep, soft mud in the daytime, not to speak of the dark nights, Chamberlain street and part of State street are the only streets poorly lighted in Brewer, so they say.

The Bangor Daily Whig and Courier will be found a safe place for people at all stands. For those who don't want to spend a large sum of money at a time the Whig will be delivered to your house early every morning for only 15 cents a week. Just think for only 15 cents you can start the day with a full knowledge of what is going on around you and you will have the satisfaction of saying, "Oh, yes, I read it in the morning's Whig." Instead of being surprised and saying, "It that way?" to everything you hear. Brace up, and get in the game with your neighbors. Mr. Bet Rowe will supply the upper corner, as usual. Subscribe now for one week and you will want to take it all winter. You'll know all the news before breakfast. Don't delay.

If the wealthy people of Boston, New York, Philadelphia and such places, who are tired of going to the different places summers, knew or even dreamed of the beautiful ponds and pretty pastoral scenes around Brewer, they would flock here by hundreds. Just imagine what the view from Mass Hill would be to one who had never seen it before. The high, dry, clear, breezy air, the beautiful mountains, the myriads of little ponds, and some large, alpine lakes, which are nestled in among the hills. They would be charmed. The much talked of "Burr House" would not be in it. This is no fairy tale, and one who thinks this an exaggeration, might drive out there and see for themselves. Brewer is a beautiful place, and one who thinks this an exaggeration, might drive out there and see for themselves. Brewer is a beautiful place, and one who thinks this an exaggeration, might drive out there and see for themselves.

The meeting of the Christian Science Society, which was postponed on account of the rain a week ago Sunday was held yesterday with Mr. Gilkey at his residence on State street. The meeting was opened by Mr. Snow's reading the Lord's prayer, followed by silent prayer of all. There was Bible reading by Miss Lizzie Edwards and instrument music by Mrs. Chazy. The meeting closed with singing by the members.

The old residents of Brewer and some of the younger ones often speak of "Harrington's Woods" and how they dislike to see the grand old trees there cut down. They have sheltered pleasant school parties and others many years. This was the place to get the first May flowers, the earliest violets, the most ivy leaf plants and the young ivy leaves. It was the place where some of the old hunters first

Everyone is trying to help the library fund.

Mr. Edward Atwood and wife have returned from a trip to Boston.

Mrs. Moss is working for Mrs. Frank Cavanaugh during the latter's sickness.

Mrs. E. L. Savage of South Brewer arrived home last night from Haverhill, Mass.

Mr. Charles Cobb has gone to Verona Park on business. He was accompanied by Mrs. Cobb.

Miss Sada Wood's health is very much improved. Her many friends will be pleased to hear it.

Mr. Ralph Wentworth and Mr. Fred Bolton are engaged to work for Mr. Rollins next week.

Mr. Vickery and family are moving into the Smalley house on the corner of Main and Chamberlain streets.

Many of our young ladies are much interested in physical culture, and are planning on getting up a class this winter.

Fences are on the way in Brewer and will soon be a relic of the past. Everyone seems to be tearing their fences down.

Mr. Hugh O'Brien has made more bricks than any other firm in Brewer this season. He has a crew busy engaged every day loading cars to carry the bricks up to put in the new wings of the insane hospital.

Miss Lida Green has been busy training the little girls who are to take part in the Doll Drill tomorrow night. There will be a rehearsal tonight and another one tomorrow afternoon in the M. E. chapel.

A crew of eight men were busy Sunday fixing the railroad track at the Brewer end of the bridge. To see people at work on Sunday is such a rare sight that quite a crowd assembled to watch the progress of the men.

A Bangor farmer wrote to the correspondence department of a Chicago paper saying, "I would like to know what ails my hens. Every morning I go out to the hen yard and find two or three of them feeble over." He received the answer that his hens were dead.

Brewer people are beginning to miss the Brewer-Budd's music. Many of the people say they used to enjoy the rehearsals even, which used to make the place seem more lively. Many people wonder if they have disbanded.

If Brewer property owners keep on repairing and building, there will soon be no such thing as an old looking building in the place and they will have the well deserved reputation of being the neatest city in the state. If the city keeps on growing as it has in the past, some of moving fields will be converted into streets.

They have sheltered pleasant school parties and others many years. This was the place to get the first May flowers, the earliest violets, the most ivy leaf plants and the young ivy leaves. It was the place where some of the old hunters first learned to shoot. It was the favorite place to snare rabbits in winter. It was the pleasantest days of childhood when I was connected in Brewer people's mind. Some say or another with just a few. They say the young trees are growing, though, and Brewer people hope they will be unmoistened and that they may grow as a faithful companion to "Harrington's Rock," which still holds its own in the same old field. Although the kind old farmer and his gentle wife have long gone to rest, his name still lives in the hearts of those who remember his good deeds and kind words are as solid as "Harrington's Rock."

HE CHASED THE GHOST.

The ghost walked out on the railroad road on Halloween. It was not an act of spook that saddens the Bangor newspaper editors' heart at two o'clock, nor was it the real evil that is supposed to float up from the tops of the abandoned tombstones. It was only a frightened ghost but he walked in a very noisy and this is the way of his coming.

"Say," said Herbert to Charles, "Reuben's comin' down tonight to our house, and he's the scariest thing of them all over here. Let's scare him. I'll get a sheet and meet him in the dark down by Pratt's. You go ahead and tell him he is and come back and tell me what he is ready."

So the ghost robed himself in a good costume and peched himself on a road in the loneliest spot in the state. He waited until his patience began to wear when a form came in sight. Thinking it to be his friend Charles, the extra the ghost walked into the road and whispered in true stage style: "See Reuben! He's far off is he?" "Oh, Reuben! He's answered the voice of Reuben, who was, and Reuben's form rose from the ground, and over played around the ghost's white robe was thrown over the side of the chair and it was two men and the ghost found himself back in his own chamber and safe from the clutches of the "dimid Reuben." Herbert doesn't believe in ghosts, in the sense that he will believe and if left to him it is safe to say the ghost will never walk or run—again on the Lambert road.

Benny all gone? He's acher! Stomach out of order? Simply a case of cold. River. Burdock Blood Bitters will make a man or woman of you.

General John Edwards, of Chilo, Co., who led the first in of men and the first into the German State is still alive and hearty at the age of eighty. He is a native of Chautauque, N.Y.
